BRITAIN AND AMERICA.

MISCHIEVOUS CANARD COMPLETELY EXPOSED.

"A PREPOSTEROUS REPORT."

LONDON, February 9.

That section of the American Press which has recently been making capital out of Mr. Austen Chamberlain's proposal in order to stir up Anglo-American trouble has now found a new canard, suggesting that a Foreign Office authority raised an Anglo-American war alarm at a conference of American pressmen in London. Cablegrams on the subject have amazed Washington. Although the papers refrain from editorial comment, interviews with Mr. Colby and a number of Senators are published describing the report as incredible and preposterous.

The truth is, Reuter is informed, that Sir Auckland Geddes during his stay in London was approached by a number of American journalists desirous of interviewing him. Sir Auckland Geddes declined but asked the American pressmen to meet him at the Foreign Office. Sir Auckland Geddes, after impressing on them that his remarks were most confidential, referred to the difficulties occasioned by the overburdening of the cables preventing explanations of facts. He thought it very advisable that correspondents at present should avoid cabling matter calculated without full explanation to disturb Anglo-American relations. He said that owing to various causes there were at present certain outstanding points between the two nations and nothing should be said or done which would tend to accentuate them.

IDEA OF HOSTILITIES RIDICULOUS.
It appears that a very exaggerated version of Sir Auckland Geddes' remarks was cabled to America by representatives of certain American agencies totally disregarding the seal of confidence. The Associated Press which was represented at the gathering abstained from cabling any part of the confidential statement.

LATER.

With reference to the Anglo-American relations canard, Reuter is authoritatively informed that Anglo-American relations are most friendly. The British Government anticipates an early and satisfactory settlement of all outstanding questions with the United States. It is emphasized in high quarters that the idea of hostilities with America is too ridiculous to merit discussion. Never has the wish of Britain to settle points at issue been so strong as to-day. This is believed to be also the view of American public opinion. The Foreign Office disclaimed all knowledge of the statement in the American press and expresses the conviction that any question arising between Britain and the United States can be settled without difficulty whether with the existing or succeeding administration.

OFFICIAL DENIAL.

WASHINGTON, February 10.

Acting on instructions from London Mr. Craigie, the British Charge d'Affaires, visited Mr. Colby and officially denied the Anglo-American canard.

SINN FEIN ORGANISATION.

"HEADQUARTERS SOMEWHERE IN WEST SCOTLAND."

LONDON, February 9.

A Sinn Fein has been sentenced to ten years' penal servitude and three others each to eight years' penal servitude in connection with the Bothwell outrage. The judge, summing up, said that there was good reason to believe that the outrage was the work of a Sinn Fein organisation with headquarters somewhere in West Scotland.

AMERICAN RELIEF WORK.

LONDON, February 9.

A group of American members of the Society of Friends who have reached London are proceeding to Ireland to work in conjunction with the American committee of relief in Ireland. British quakers are to ascertain the conditions in Ireland and the nature of American assistance required to meet economic needs.

OVER 40,000 SEAMEN LOST IN BRITISH WATERS.

LONDON, February 9.

The vessels sunk belonging to the British Empire alone numbered 4,696, of a gross tonnage of 9,500,000. Enemy action was responsible for the loss of 3,781 vessels of 8,500,000 tons.

ORGAN RECITAL.

ST. JOHN'S CATHEDRAL.

NEXT MONDAY'S PROGRAMME.

Mr. Denman Fuller will give his next organ recital in St. John's Cathedral on Monday next at 5.30 p.m. The programme will include several pieces which have been frequently asked for on previous occasions and which it has not been possible to give earlier owing to the making of extensive improvements which necessitated a great part of the organ being out of use for some months. Amongst these will be the C sharp minor Bachmanoff Prelude and Widor's Toccata in F. A. Nocturne of Lamare, the famous Recitalist will figure in the programme; it is one of the least known but finest of his many compositions and has not been played here before. During the Recital there will be an improvisation in order to display some of the numerous effects the addition of the new Tuba (which will be used for the first time) and the pneumatic action with the extra Couplers has made possible. These last additions bring the Cathedral Organ into the front rank of instruments of a similar size and finally complete a scheme which was commenced by Mr. Denman Fuller fourteen years ago.

REPULSE BAY HOTEL.

MISS ADAIR'S SINGING.

A TALENTED PERFORMER.

The attractions at the Repulse Bay Hotel were enhanced last night by the singing of Miss Alma Adair, late a member of several of the most popular Broadway companies. She will sing again on Saturday night, and on Wednesday, February 16.

Miss Adair, in private life is Mrs. George B. Levy, wife of the Far Eastern representative of the Soda-baker Corporation of America, and is making an extended tour of the Orient with her husband. She is one of the best-known players on Broadway. She has appeared in Lew Field's "Poor Little Ritz Girl," in Shubert's "Winter Garden show in New York, the revue at the Capitol Theatre, and at Keith's Vaudeville Houses in New York.

During the war she did much singing for the soldiers in hospitals, encampments, and Y.M.C.A. huts, and has the distinction of selling more Liberty Bonds and raising more money individually for the American soldiers than any other person on the New York stage. She possesses a charming voice and a winning personality.

EARLIER TELEGRAMS.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

AMERICAN NEWSPRINT.

WASHINGTON, February 8th.

The delegation of publishers opposes the newspaper manufacturers' request, cabled yesterday, on the ground American forests are so depleted that no traffic can possibly expand the industry.

[The delegation of newspaper manufacturers requested the House of Representatives Legislation Committee to introduce a bill taxing foreign newspaper, except that from Canada, at the rate of $15 per ton. The delegation pointed out that newspaper from Scandinavia and Holland could be sold in the United States below the cost of production, owing to the exchange situation.]

BRITISH TRADE IN CHINA.

LONDON, February 9th.

In reference to the newly-formed Chartered Corporation to develop British Trade with China it is stated that it is not intended to call for subscriptions from the public at present, but British manufacturers will be given an opportunity of subscribing for founders' shares with which the capital of the business will be commenced. Afterwards, when the affairs of the Corporation are placed on a sound footing as a going concern, the public in China and Great Britain will be invited to subscribe for ordinary shares.

One of the principal features of the Corporation will be equal opportunities for all representative Chinese and British manufacturing and trading concerns in regard to obtaining from the corporation technical and financial assistance for establishing factories in China, or with British home-made products in China.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN SWEDEN.

THE ANTI-ALIEN LAW.

VISCOUNT ISHII'S VIEW FAVOURED
BY AMERICAN PRESS.

Editorial comment in America on the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance and on the speech made in London by Viscount Ishii along this line points out that the Japanese Ambassador to France is correct in saying that the Alliance does not menace American interests while the recent appeal of the Governor of Oregon for the enactment of an anti-alien law in that State similar to California's is condemned by the Portland Oregonian.

The New York World, commenting on Viscount Ishii's speech, says:—
"Whoever reads the text of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance will realise that the pact in question in no way menaces American interests, but that situation will be altered unless an arbitration treaty be concluded between the United States and Great Britain.

AGAINST NAVAL EXPANSION.
The fact should not be lost sight of that the Anglo-Japanese Alliance is designed against possibilities in the Far East, not can time that there are Americans who are opposed to Japanese
expansion in Asia, too. The opposition raised by some Americans to Japanese activity in Shanghai and in Korea may lead the Japanese into the
misunderstanding that the Americans
want to prevent Japanese expansion
not only on the Pacific Coast but also in Asia, and thus to deprive Japan of
her chance of national development.

If Japanese immigration is really detrimental to the development of agriculture, business and education
in America, and if the State Department neglected to take due notice of the situation, then drastic steps might be advocated. As it is, the situation is not of such a grave nature. It is highly advisable for Oregon, therefore, to make an effort, in concert
with the State Department, to improve matters in the hope of enabling
the latter to take what it deems the
best course in arriving at a satisfactory settlement of the question."

The New York Times says:—
"In the strict sense of the term, whether the United States will be favoured with the application of Article Four of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance depends on whether an Anglo-American arbitration treaty be only ratified or not. Common sense will, however, be more than sufficient to make it clear that if America be really anxious for the maintenance of the peace of the world, the existence of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance will subject the United States to no danger, whatever, even without the ratification of an Anglo-American Arbitration Treaty. One of the conditions essential for the maintenance of lasting peace among Great Britain, Japan and the United States lies in the establishment of a real, mutual understanding."

URGES JOINING LEAGUE.

The Times, in conclusion, urges the advisability of America's joining the League of Nations, on the ground

DON'T RISK PNEUMONIA.

possible. It is the forerunner of all that America would then be secure from whatever danger might arise, "it is all, from the absence of an Anglo-American Arbitration Treaty."

The Portland Oregonian, in discussing the message of the Governor of Oregon in regard to Japanese immigration, says:—

"It is not likely that Japanese immigration into this State has attained so serious a development as to admit of no more moderate means" of its suppression than the one hinted by the Governor in his message recently issued. The fact must be remembered that California has given rise to an international question of a very knotty character because of its anti-Japanese land legislation. It is quite clear that the State Department is making every effort for the solution of the Japanese immigration question in such a way as to ensure complete satisfaction, but the enacting of legislation like California's, which is open to doubt as to whether it is consistent with the Constitution, will only cause additional difficulty to the negotiations now being carried on by the State Department.

SUPPORTS AIMS IN ASIA.

"The views of the Governor, however, contain some truth when he remarks that the expansion of the Japanese, who are not assimilable, should be in Asia and not in America.
The fact should not be lost sight of
at the same time that there are Americans who are opposed to Japanese
expansion in Asia, too. The opposition raised by some Americans to
Japanese activity in Shanghai and in Korea may lead the Japanese into the
misunderstanding that the Americans
want to prevent Japanese expansion
not only on the Pacific Coast but also
in Asia, and thus to deprive Japan of
her chance of national development.

If Japanese immigration is really
detrimental to the development of
agriculture, business and education
in America, and if the State Department neglected to take due notice of
the situation, then drastic steps might
be advocated. As it is, the situation
is not of such a grave nature. It is highly advisable for Oregon, therefore, to make an effort, in concert
with the State Department, to improve matters in the hope of enabling
the latter to take what it deems the
best course in arriving at a satisfactory settlement of the question."

Pains in Your Back.What is needed to put a speedy end to the excruciating agonies of kidney trouble.

There is only one way to do this, and that is to get a remedy that will get right to the root of the pain in the back. I tried all sorts of the trouble—the kidneys and bladder. Those pills, plasters and doctors' prescriptions, but none seemed to do me the least good. On a friend's advice I tried De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills, and the relief they gave me was almost immediate. I continued, and after taking the pills I felt a different woman. Since that I have had no return of the pain. I feel very grateful to you for a complete and wonderful cure. Over five years later, on December 29th, 1910, Mrs. Armstrong says, "I am only too pleased to tell you that I have not had the slightest return of the complaint from which I suffered for more than seven years, since De Witt's Pills cured me."

Mrs. Armstrong.

To cure kidney trouble of any kind you must positively get rid of the cause—the poisonous acid. Remember, too, that real remedy must pass through the kidneys and the bladder, and not through the bowels, as most kidney pills do. When you see the wise change to a truly reliable color—a feature which distinguishes De Witt's Pills from all others—you know that they have put their healing touch on the right picture as I could hardly stoop. At times I could spot the kidneys and the bladder.

A LEOPARD CHILD.

STRANGE INDIAN STORY.

MR. KIPLING'S NOWGHI IN REAL LIFE.

From time to time, writes the Calcutta correspondent of the Morning Post, the Indian forest yield up to civilisation strange denizens whose fate and condition recall Mr. Kipling's Nowghi and the now famous Tarzan.
Shortly before the war I mentioned in my despatches a female monkey-child which was brought in to Naini Tal. The creature had apparently spent some nine years in the jungle, could eat nothing but grass and chappaties, and sat and behaved in most respect like a monkey.

A very interesting case of a male leopard-child is now reported from the North Cachar Hills, on India's North-Eastern frontier by Mr. Stuart Baker,
F.Z.S. At the village of Dhungi Mr.
Baker was confronted in the court house with protests from a certain native against the proposal that he should furnish his share of the forced labour for road mending, etc., which in India takes the place of direct taxation. The man's contention was that his wife had recently died, and that if he left his little wild son would run back to the jungle. Mr. Baker accordingly went outside the court to see the "wild child," and there was a small boy about seven years old, or less, squatting on the ground like a small animal. Directly Mr. Baker came near him he put his head in the air and sniffed about, finishing by bolting on all fours to his father, between whose legs he backed like a small wild beast retreating into a burrow. Looking closer at the child Mr.
Baker saw that he was nearly or entirely blind from some form of cataract, and his body was covered with the white scars of innumerable healed fury cuts and scratches. The boy's father narrated the following story, which Mr. Baker fully believes to be true.

THE LEOPARD'S REVENGE.

"About five years before Mr. Baker saw father and son the Cachari villagers had found two leopard cubs close to their villages, which they killed. The mother leopard had tracked the murderers of her children back to the village and had haunted the outskirts for two days. The third day a woman cutting rice in some cultivation close to the village laid her baby boy down on a cloth while she went on with her work. Presently, hearing a cry, she turned round and saw a leopard bounding away and carrying the child with it.

The whole village at once turned out and hunted for the leopard and baby, but without success, and finally they were forced by darkness to leave the boy, as they supposed, to be eaten by the leopard.

Some three years after this event
a leopardess was killed close to the village by a sportsman, who brought in the news of his success, together with the information that the leopard had cubs which he had failed to secure. On hearing this the whole village turned out and eventually captured two cubs and one child, the boy of Mr. Baker's story. He was at once identified by his parents, claimed by them, and their claim admitted by the whole village.

Subsequently when visiting Dhun-gi Mr. Baker interviewed the head man and also the man who actually caught the child, and they both corroborated the father's tale in every detail. It appeared that at the time he was caught the child ran on all fours almost as fast as an adult man could run, whilst in dodging in and out of bushes and other obstacles he was much cleverer and quicker. At that time he was only suffering from cataract to a slight extent and could see fairly well, but after he was caught his eyes rapidly became worse.
His knees, even when Mr. Baker saw him and when he had learnt to move about upright to a great extent, had hard callousities on them, and his toes were retained upright almost at right angles to his instep. The palms of his hands and pads of toes and thumbs were also covered with very tough, horny skin. When first caught he hid and fought with everyone who came within reach of him, and, although even then affected in his eyes, any villager who came within his reach was seized, torn to pieces,
and eaten with extraordinary rapidity.

THE JUNGLE-BRED TAMED.

When brought before Mr. Baker
the boy had been more or less tamed.
He walked upright except when startled into extra rapid motion, and was friendly with his own villagers, whom he seemed to know by scent.
He would eat rice, vegetables,

ELIA'S BIRTHDAY.

It is one hundred and forty-six years ago this very day since Charles Lamb made his first noise in the world. Here, at the very outset, observe how words betray. When the outer air first entered his lungs, it is certain that our master essayist let out a cry like that of most babies newly come to earth. In the hall of literary fame, the laudations of his lovers cause a noise which he as provoker may be said to make. Yet every admirer of the gentle Elia will feel that the association of noise with his name is somehow wrong. We think of noise as noisy, whereas, of course, in the language of science the most soothing murmuring sound is a noise. The skylark makes a noise. So does the cuckoo. A shy streamlet in a wood makes a noise, and so, we guess, does a fairy mother crooning over a new-born elf. Horns of elf-land faintly blowing. "Taunter itself, not alone the loud laugh that does not necessarily speak the vacant mind, but the lonely chuckle that follows the reading of the History of Pigeon and the Farewell to Tobacco, these also would be catalogued as noise, by a matter-of-fact person unaware of the nuances of verbal suggestion. May we claim that our beloved Elia was an artist of nuance, that talk. He smoked too much and drank too much, the moral biographers inform us; but where lives the breed of men to love moral biographers as we love Lamb? With less tobacco and less gin he might have been a better Lamb; but who knows? In that case he might never have become our Charles Lamb at all. His best work was done while he was an office drudge, and while he was troubled with affairs. What a writer, we may suppose some critic guessing, he could have been if he had had leisure and peace of mind! All we know for sure is that after he took his pension and had leisure he produced very little. He had formed the fatal habit of routine, and did routine literary trifling as a hobby to replace the routine he missed. Slaves of too long standing cannot enjoy freedom when it comes, and business take holidays on buses. Our "English Montaigne," full of fun, fancy, and discernment, is our toast to-day. Hongkong readers should to-night read his essay on correspondence with friends abroad. They will then want to drink the toast with gusto.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

The funeral of the late Lady Wei Yuk will take place on Tuesday, February 15, at 2 p.m.

The Chinese who were reported yesterday to have accidentally shot himself while toying with a revolver on the top floor of No. 50, Stanley Street, on Tuesday afternoon, died in the Government Civil Hospital last night.

An obvious error got into the report in yesterday's China Mail of the picnic organized by the St. Andrew's (Kowloon) Men's Church Association, the compositor misreading the word "Church" for "Chinese."

At a meeting of the Church of England Men's Society at the Cathedral Hall on Tuesday, 15th inst., at 9.15 p.m. Mr. Bowley will read a paper on "Sweated Labour." All (especially ladies and Chinese) interested in the Protection of Women and Children are invited to attend and to take part in a discussion afterwards.

Two cases of diphtheria, one British and the other Portuguese, were reported during the three days ended yesterday. Last week five Chinese died from influenza and one from small-pox. One imported case of paratyphoid fever, Norwegian, and two cases of enteric fever, one Malay and the other Chinese, were also reported.

We have it on good authority, which we are not at liberty to disclose, that the Planters' Association of Batavia, Java, is taking steps to acquire no less than fifty-one steamships, and that a number of Austrian ex-Naval officers are to be obtained for officiating some of them, on a guaranteed pay of not less than £50 per month—Shipping and Engineering.

A well dressed Chinese youth was this morning charged before Magistrate Lindsell with the theft of clothing from No. 11, Kwong Hong Terrace. Pleading "guilty," the accused said he had pawned the clothing in order to raise money to buy rice. The Magistrate suggested that he had been using the money to pay gambling debts. Under pressure, the accused admitted that he had lost $100 in gambling. The Magistrate bound him over in two sureties of $100 each to come up for sentence when called upon.

On the arrival at Shanghai of the N.Y.K. s.s. "Tenyo Maru" from Hongkong, some 30 Customs officials raided her for smuggled opium and cocaine. There was discovered a hollow piece of wood some two feet long and one foot wide in the crew's quarters, which had apparently been used for smuggling. It is said that such pieces of wood, filled with the illicit drugs, are thrown overboard at Nagasaki, Moji and Kobe, and that accomplices on a lighter pick them up.

There will be only 38 days, exclusive of Sundays, during the year 1921 when some country somewhere in the world is not celebrating a holiday of one sort or another. Even this small number of world-wide working days will be reduced by advances to other days of celebration which would otherwise fall on Sundays. Moreover there will be further abstractions from toil for religious and other festivals not recognized as holidays by Governments or banks but which nevertheless will be participated in by many thousands of men and women. Of all countries Turkey is most given to the keeping of holidays, there being twenty-five days in the year, when special celebrations are held. Scotland, with only five holidays, is the country most thrifty of its time. These and a multitude of other facts concerning the times and customs of all peoples are contained in the fourth edition of the Bank and Public Holidays Throughout the World, the annual publication of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, which has just been issued for the year 1921.

HOLIDAY CRICKET.

PEARCE MAKES DOUBLE CENTURY.

Cricket enthusiasts spent a very enjoyable holiday watching a most interesting, two-day match on the Hongkong Cricket Club ground between a Club XI and a team drawn from the United Services. The Band of the Wiltshire Regiment was in attendance on both Tuesday and Wednesday. A feature of the match was a score of 201 by T. E. Pearce, who played excellent cricket and received a great ovation from the spectators for his performance. When he had reached 157, Pearce had a very narrow escape. In fact, the ball passed so near to the wicket that he himself was under the impression that he had been bowled, and was about to leave the wicket when the umpire gave "not out." This was followed by another long spell of pretty batting which took Pearce into his second century. Soon afterwards stumps were drawn with Pearce still carrying his bat, apparently quite set and capable of knocking up another century. Close followers of cricket in Hongkong for many years hold that Pearce's was the second double century that has been scored in the Colony.

HOLIDAY FOOTBALL.

YESTERDAY'S CHARITY MATCH.

Yesterday on the Club Ground the South China Athletic F.C. met a team representing the pick of the Colony's First Division Players. The Match was arranged on behalf of the North China Famine Relief Fund. Apart from that, however, a match including the versatile Chinese Eleven is always worth watching. Consequently there was quite a considerable crowd present to watch yesterday's match. Judging by appearances, the collectors were not unsuccessful in their efforts to fill their boxes. The Famine Relief Fund should benefit accordingly. The ground was in fine condition, being if anything a little on the dry side. There was no wind, but a strong sun made its presence felt.

By 4.15 p.m. the ground was well thronged, and the grandstand filled. The Rest, all in white, led by Rodger Senior took the field first. A few seconds after the Chinese, a spick and span lot in red shirts, came on. The whistle lined the two teams up as follows:—

Rest—Rodger (Club), F. Wheeler (Kowloon), Mapleson ("Titania"), McPhail (Club), Stenwood (R.G.A.), J. Rodger, Captain, (Club), Savage ("Ambrose"), Downs ("Ambrose"), Robertson (Police), McHugh (R.G.A.) and Keady (R.G.A.), Lineaman, Mr. McCabbin.

S.C.A.—Lau Hing Cheung, Fung Tai, Chan So, Leung Yik, Tong, Leung Tai Fong, Cheung Wai Shing (Captain), Ko Sik Wai, Ip Ken Wong, Peh Pah Cheng, Kwok Ho Kan, and Au Kit Sang.

Promptly at 4.30 P.M. the Chinese having won the toss put their opponents to face the sun. The ball went to the Chinese inside right who transferred to the left wing. Passing to his inside man, the Chinese forward line moved forward, but Wheeler at right back for the Rest intercepted and cleared.

The ball was swung out to Savage at right wing, who took the ball down the touchline and centred beautifully to his inside right who almost broke through, the Chinese left back just bringing him down in time, right within the penalty area. Still continuing the offensive, the Rest tried hard to open the scoring and forced a corner. This was put behind, but the resulting goal kick did not relieve the Chinese defence.

The Rest pressing hard for some minutes, and the Chinese goalie being forced to run out to intercept some tricky passing two or three times. At this stage the Chinese were on the defensive. When their right half back was unfortunate enough to be injured and carried off the field it was thought it would not be long before the Chinese goal would be down. The Rest reckoned without their hosts however, for at this juncture the Chinese forwards took up the offensive and tested their opponents' defence with some pretty combined play. The Rest's half-backs and backs were on their game, however, and after a few anxious moments again attacked. After this the Chinese forwards got but few chances to get away, the Rest keeping them very much on the defensive.

The Chinese forwards were always dangerous and had to be watched. They seldom lost an opportunity and were a tricky lot to hold. The Rest should have scored several times at this juncture, their forwards playing with rare combination and the passing being first class. The real excellence, however, of the Chinese defence kept the Rest from scoring, the Chinese goalie in particular playing a very sound game.

During one of their forward movements the Chinese were stopped by the bursting of the ball. Then their injured right half returned to the field and the game became more even, each side taking turns at attack and defence, the Chinese forwards using their heads in great style. Whilst attacking, the Chinese were here awarded a penalty. Wheeler being unfortunate enough to handle accidentally, but this brought the Chinese no advantage, Rodger bringing off a save in real professional style. Half time came with the scores blank.

The beginning of the second half was marked by some desultory mid-field play, each team seeming as if they were trying to take each other's measure. Then the Rest got away. A lovely centre from their left-wing went into the Chinese goalie's hands. In the nick of time he threw out, just escaping being bundled into the net by the Rest's centre forward. The game after this developed into a series of attacks on the Chinese goal, the latter's defence being hard put to it to keep their goal intact. Now and again the Chinese forwards seized an opening and got away, and when they did they were always out for a goal, but they could not go far past the Rest's defence, and when they did Rodger Junior in goal was always there and well prepared. When the full time whistle went it found the Chinese goal again being raided determinedly. The match however ended in a goalless draw to the spectators having been treated to ninety minutes of interesting football.

Mr. Jones, the referee, conducted his duties in a most capable manner.

UNITED v. STAFFS.

The United and the Staffs played a very interesting match in connection with the 2nd Division of the Hongkong Football League, on the Club ground on Tuesday. A very evenly contested match resulted in a win for the Civilian by 2 goals to 1. The Soldiers drew first blood, Payne beating McLeod early in the game. May equalized, and in the second half scored his side's winning goal with a low shot which gave Rhodes no chance.

CLUB AND NAVY DRAW.

As anticipated, Tuesday's rugby match between the Hongkong Football Club and the Navy, in connection with the competition for the Challenge Cup was very keenly contested. A record gathering watched the struggle which was full of excitement throughout. The final result, a pointless draw, very appropriately, was popular with the spectators. Both teams were well balanced and evenly matched, with the result that in spite of very strenuous efforts neither pack of forwards could gain any material advantage over the sound defences at both ends of the field. The Club took the field with fourteen men and played one man short throughout the match. Wilson who was so badly knocked about in last Saturday's match being unfit to play. Excepting for Wilson's absence and presence of J. Rodger instead of Baxter, in the Club team, the XV's turned out as chosen. Mr. Peacock performed the duties of referee instead of Capt. H. E. Murray, I.M.S., who was limping very badly as the result of the last week end match between the Club and the Army.

The Navy started the oval in motion, but the Club gathered, and for the first fifteen minutes of the game the leather was kept in the Navy half of the field where the defenders had to work very hard to keep the Club forwards out.

In the course of a scrum near the Navy goal early in the game McCann injured his knee, but in view of the fact that his side was already playing one man short, he refused to leave the field and very sportingly played on, though limping badly. Although the Navy tried very hard, they could not get the oval out of their territory. Every time they crossed the centre line they found Wallace ready for emergencies. He tackled and cleared well, and was generally a thorn in the side of the Navy forwards. Towards the close of the first half Wallace and the Navy inside threequarters tried conclusions with the result that they both had to leave the field.

Wallace with an ugly cut in the head and his opponent, who fell heavily, with a badly hurt arm. Half time arrived soon afterwards with the score sheet blank.

At the resumption Wallace returned to the field with a bandaged head and fell into the full back position, his place in the threequarters being taken by Alabaster. The Navy man did not turn out for the second half, and both teams played one man short. Early in this half the Club were awarded a penalty and had a glorious chance of assuming the lead, but McCann failed to convert. Nothing very outstanding occurred after this, the oval being for the most part kept in midfield. Towards the close of the game the Club made a great effort, which ended in Macnamara being winded with the result that a ball had to be called for a time.

CORRESPONDENCE.

"HEAPING COALS OF FIRE"

[To the Editor of the "China Mail."]

Sir,—I have read with great interest and pleasure last Saturday's "Adversarius." I have always entertained a great liking for "Adversarius" and his weekly articles. His somewhat acid comments upon my article in last Tuesday's Daily Press have in no way altered my opinion of him. He calls me impertinent, self-sufficient, saucy, Bolshevistic, and what not, but these personal remarks are addressed by one who is "older and wiser" than I, so I will pass by without comment. There are, however, certain points in "Adversarius" article which I must touch upon.

1. My ideas concerning Public Opinion are called "pretty platitudes." I agree. They are pretty. One point to "Adversarius." 2. I am told that my history is wrong. "Adversarius" is right. I am always weak in history. Two points to nothing. 3. Is it possible he is correct in saying that the University Library is not open to the students? so asks "Adversarius." No, it is not possible—for the simple reason that "he" does not say it. This is what I said:—The University Library should be thrown completely open to students. At present they are not allowed to borrow books out, while the lecturers are. This is an injustice. "Adversarius" must admit that I score here. The students may go into the library and read there, but they are not allowed to take books out.

4. I did not say that lecturers and professors should call on the students. My point is: why shouldn't they? I am far from advocating the practice of lecturers invading students' room, or of students disturbing lecturers from preparing their lectures for the next day. If the members of our Staff would show us the way, and tell us when they would be free to meet students in their houses, I feel sure that the latter would cast off their shyness and meet their teachers more than half way.

5. The "very excellent little Chinese" poem, sometimes sung by coolies, and repeated by "Adversarius" tells us that "only a fool emphasises the obvious." I am sorry to hear that, as I have always admired Adversarius' championship of the people's cause, and his spirited and emphatic comments on the public's needs, which although well-known and obvious to everybody require a clever and courageous pen, such as the one wielded by Adversarius, to depict.

6. Adversarius tells his readers that my article was written as a reply to one printed in the China Mail, and as such should have come to the China Mail. I beg Adversarius not to be mistaken. My article in the Daily Press was not meant as a reply to any particular letter printed in any paper. It was merely an expression of my views on the subject of the University.

7. I have to thank Adversarius for his remarks on "X's" letter which appeared in the D.P. last Thursday. It is not my practice to reply to anonymous letters; so "X" may sleep peacefully, although he thoroughly deserves the most ruthless bombardment for his childish attack on myself. Besides, his letter was obviously written in a fit of temper—and we must all make allowances for drunkards, lunatics and children.

Yours etc.,

TRAM ACCIDENT.

EUROPEAN KNOCKED DOWN.

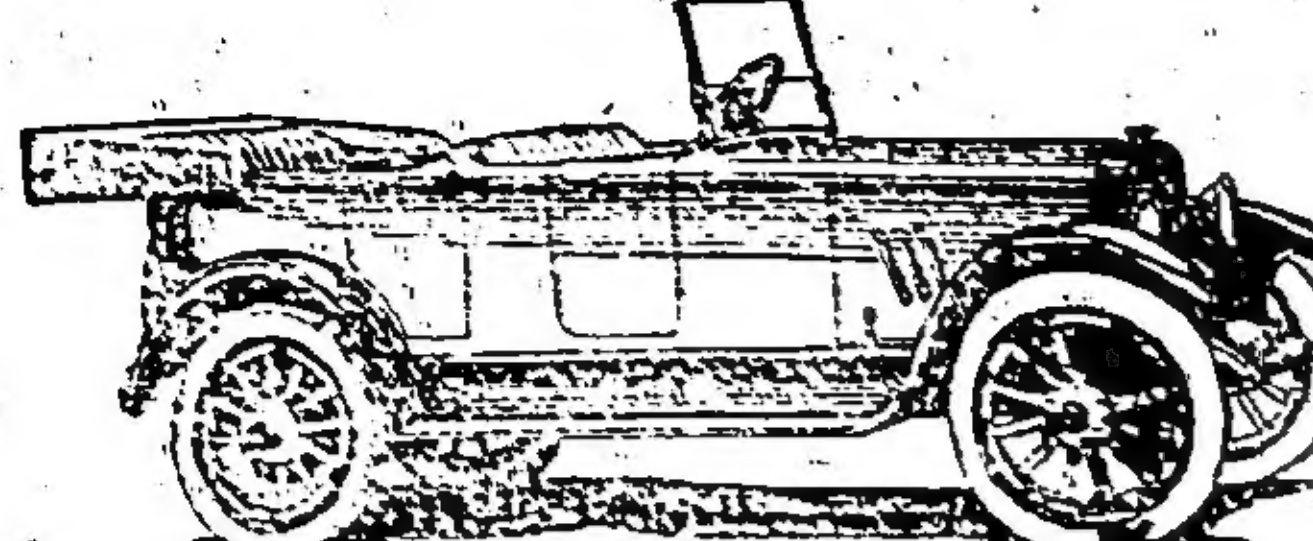

INJURIES NOT SERIOUS.

On Tuesday the police found a European lying unconscious in Des Vaux Road West. Immediately off the tram lines. An examination showed that he was suffering from injuries to his head. He was removed to the Government Civil Hospital. From enquiries made in the vicinity the police ascertained that the man was knocked down by tram car No. 40. His injuries are not serious.

Rodger who made his first appearance for the Club in league "rugger" this season played a very good game at threequarters. Wallace until he received his injury was by far the most outstanding man on the field. Davies did good work for his side gathering from the scrums and kicking up the field. Tinson and Ralston were the backbone of the attack and between them they gave the Navy many anxious moments. The Navy and the Club now have each five points to their credit, so that the fate of the cup is still in doubt. The Navy have an advantage over the Club, however, in that they have still one game to play against the Army. Should they either win or draw this fixture, the cup is theirs. But if the Army take the points at stake, a final will have to be played between the Club and the Navy.

THEATRE ROYAL.
WILLIAMS VARIETY COMPANY.
A SPRIGHTLY SHOW.

The J. C. Williams Variety Company, which opened at the Theatre Royal last night for a brief season of four nights and a matinee, gave a sprightly opening performance that kept the audience entertained from start to finish. All the members of the company show remarkable versatility, and several of them have exceptional talent. Among the latter, especially, are Miss Cora Williams, an extremely dainty and pretty-gowned performer; Teddy, a child acrobat who is distinctly well worth seeing; Mr. Schemm, an excellent pianist; despite the handicap of an indifferent piano; and Madame Cam Skalsky, who lifted the house to a state of enthusiasm by her singing of operatic selections. Mention should also be made of Ginger, the dog, who in his particular sphere of activity is undoubtedly a headliner.

The programme opened with Miss Solma Primrose, the living model, in a series of poses, which were generally highly artistic. Then followed Mr. J. C. Williams as "The Singing Tramp," in several acceptable songs, pleasingly rendered. The next number was "Little Teddy" in a bewitching series of front and back somersaults and contortions that would constitute a marvellous set of morning exercises for anyone ambitious enough to try them. "Little Teddy" was the hearts of the audience by his talent and boyish bearing. Throughout his act, he worked without a moment's rest, though certainly he was entitled to it. Mr. Schemm then appeared in several piano selections, "Iron, Grand Opera to Jazz," each of which he played equally well. The first half of the programme closed with Jack Williams and Miss Cora Williams in what was described as sensational "dental novelties." The stage was effectively arranged. There was a rather thrilling disrobing act by Miss Williams, while she hung suspended by her teeth, and an original climax in which she whirled through the air while holding by her teeth to a hoop supported by her partner.

The second part of the programme opened with an entertaining act in which the marvels of electricity were effectively employed. Miss Kenny gave a pleasing Russian dance. "Little Teddy" returned, this time on the trapeze, and again was enthusiastically received. Jack Williams and Miss Cora Williams appeared in a bright singing and talking sketch, and after them came Madame Cam Skalsky. The excellent quality of her voice won for her applause, that amounted to a demonstration. The closing act was "Sid and Ginger," in which the dog, with extraordinary intelligence, performed any number of intricate tricks. One would go far to find a better act of its kind.

The Company will appear to-night, to-morrow night, and Saturday night, and present a matinee at 5 o'clock on Saturday.

NEW YEAR FIRES.
CRACKERS CAUSE BLAZE.
THE HOLIDAY'S RECORD.

The usual run of small fires that accompany the celebration of the Chinese New Year, due to the promiscuous firing of crackers, occurred during the holiday, though fortunately with comparatively little damage.

On Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock a fire broke out in the house at No. 17, Stanley Village, and gutted the cockpit, which was used for the storage of dried grass. The ground floor was occupied by three men and two women. It is believed the blaze was caused by a spark from the stove.

Firecrackers are blamed for a blaze which did $50 damage to the masting roof of the building at No. 152, Des Voeux Road West on Tuesday evening at 7.30. The place is occupied by the Shum Woo firm of salt fish dealers. The fire brigade extinguished the blaze. The damage is covered by insurance.

On Wednesday afternoon a small fire occurred at No. 3, Wah Ning Lane, when a bed curtain caught alight. The fire was put out by the inmates.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

"THE VICTORY AT SEA"

ADMIRAL SIMS' FASCINATING STORY.

Few records of the great war are more fascinating than the thrilling story of how the submarine was defeated, a story of the most poignant interest and historical value as told with graphic realism by Rear Admiral W. S. Sims, United States Navy, (in collaboration with Burton J. Hendrick) in "The Victory at Sea," a copy of which we have received from Messrs. Kelly and Walsh.

In the course of an interesting preface to this inspiring book, which sheds new light on almost every phase of the later naval operations, Admiral Sims explains that "the enemy submarines sought to win the war by sinking the merchant shipping on which depended the essential supplies of the allied populations and armies; and it was the effort of the Allies to prevent this, and to destroy submarines when possible, that constituted the vitally important naval activities of the war."

Disguised as a civilian, Admiral Sims arrived in Britain in one of the darkest hours of the war, when the appalling submarine sinkings—approaching a million tons a month—had led to "a general belief in British naval circles" that the submarine campaign would succeed. How the Allies successfully grappled with the terrible problem presented by the submarine menace and countered almost certain defeat by mastering the strategy of the destroyer, the deadly enemy of the U-boat, is told in the vivid pages of Admiral Sims' book. On the success of the submarine campaign depended the fate of the war. Germany therefore adopted every means in her power to compel the Allies to divert their destroyers from the anti-submarine campaign, carefully preserving her battle fleet as a constant menace which forced Britain to keep destroyers with the Grand Fleet ready for an engagement. Attacks on hospital ships likewise practically immobilized a considerable number of British destroyers which otherwise might have done most destructive work against German submarines off the coast of Ireland. With the co-operation of the American Navy defeat was averted "because the destroyer and the convoy solved the problem" of the submarine, and because back of these agencies of victory lay Admiral Beatty's squadrons, holding at arm's length the German surface ships while these comparatively fragile craft were saving the liberties of the world.

The book, which is notably just and generous to the British Navy and people, gives a brilliant description of the arrival of the American destroyers at Queenstown, how the convoy system was adopted, American destroyers in action, how submarines were decoyed to destruction, fights between submarines, how submarines were fought from the air, the visit of German submarines to America, the transportation of 2,000,000 American soldiers to France, and many other intensely interesting phases of "this very extraordinary warfare." The volume, which gives copies of important messages sent to Washington by Admiral Sims during the war, is illustrated with a portrait of the Admiral and several useful plans. Several of the many thrilling exploits (achieved by both the British and the American Navies) related in "The Victory at Sea" have already been recounted in the China Mail, but considerations of space preclude more than the briefest mention to the amazing feats of British mystery ships and other thrilling events graphically related in this remarkable book.

HOLIDAY ACCIDENTS.

MANY MOTOR MISHAPS.

PEDESTRIANS KNOCKED DOWN.

In addition to the sensational Shek-tong-chui accident reported yesterday, not fewer than six other motor accidents have been reported to the police as having occurred during the Chinese New Year holidays, fortunately without fatal results. On Monday afternoon a Chinese boy, aged 10 years, was removed to the Government Civil Hospital suffering from injuries to his head caused through being knocked down by motor car No. 437 in Queen's Road East. Two richia coolies were admitted to the hospital on Tuesday, suffering from injuries received in an accident in Des Voeux Road West, near Eastern Street, when motor car No. 3, in turning ran into their vehicles. Soon afterwards another accident occurred at almost the same spot when an 11-year old Chinese girl was knocked down by motor car No. 145, receiving injuries to her body which necessitated medical attention. A richia coolie has reported that about 12.30 p.m., on Wednesday, while he was proceeding with his empty vehicle along Queen's Road West, motor car No. 68 ran into his richia, throwing it heavily into the side channel and causing damage to the extent of $3. Two Chinese girls walking in Wongneichong Road, Wanchai, on Wednesday afternoon, were turning a corner opposite the Happy Retreat, when they were run into by motor car No. 187. Luckily the car was making the corner at a slow speed, and excepting for a few scratches, the ladies were none the worse for their experience. A messenger employed by the International Bank has reported to the police that while his little son was playing in Queen's Road Central on Wednesday, he was knocked down by motor car No. 152, receiving a slight abrasion on the face.

STRUGGLES WITH ROBBERS.

PEDESTRIANS ROBBED.

SHIP'S QUARTERMASTER ATTACKED.

A Chinese reports that about 9 p.m., on Monday he was walking in Hankow Road, Tsimshatsui, when he was suddenly attacked by three men, one of whom was armed with a dagger. They bore him to the ground, and in the course of the struggle which followed he was slightly cut in both hands. The highwaymen went through his pockets and stole a gold watch valued at $65 (gold) and an alert chain with three Canadian silver coin pendants.

The quartermaster of the s.s. "Koshe" was ashore on Wednesday to celebrate the New Year. About 11 p.m., he was walking in On Tai Street on his way to the ship when he was attacked by four men who first gave him a severe drubbing, cutting his hands in several places, and then stole from his coat pocket $140 in notes.

Japanese lawyers and barristers are very indignant at what they term the "pigeon-holing by the Privy Council" of the Draft Bill that the Government proposed to introduce in the Diet for a trial by jury system. One of the members of the association of Japanese barristers declares that the argument of the Privy Council that the jury system is incompatible with Japan's constitution "is ridiculous and only reveals ignorance." He argues that the system is not only compatible with the constitution, but is also a greatly needed reform in Japan's judicial system.

SOUTH AFRICAN ELECTIONS.

LABOUR COLLAPSE GIVES LOYALISTS' BIG LEAD.

MANY FRANK CANDIDATES FAIL.

CAPE TOWN, February 9, 12 noon.

General Smuts has been elected for Pretoria West, by a majority of 872. The position is now as follows:—South African Party 43, Labour 9, Nationalists 12, and Independent one. Country returns have still to make their weight felt but a feature up to the present has been the collapse of the Labourites who have lost chiefly to the South African Party. This is attributed to the workmen voting against Republicanism and not on sectional labour matters. Those defeated include the Labour leaders Cresswell and Kenridge, and Pretoria's Nationalist leader, Langenhoven.

AN UNTOWARD INCIDENT.

The polls generally were small. There was a large number of freak candidates with socialistic tendencies practically all of whom forfeited their deposits through not attaining the requisite proportion of votes. The only untoward incident reported occurred at Germiston where a bottle was thrown and knocked unconscious the pro-Smuts candidate McAlister as he was about to speak. A very angry scene ensued. McAlister won a triangular contest over Nationalists and Labourites.

LATER RESULTS.

LATER.

The position at midnight was:—South African Party 65 (gains sixteen), Labour nine (gains three), Nationalists 34 (gains six), Independent one. Twenty-three results are outstanding. General Smuts is assured of a working majority of ten. Eight constituencies are uncertain. There has been a fierce struggle in the country districts. The honours are evenly divided. The Nationalists gained the first victory in history in Natal at Vryheid by a majority of three.

AMERICAN IMMIGRATION.

SENATE ADOPTS A NEW MEASURE.

WASHINGTON, February 9.

The immigration committee of the Senate has disapproved the Immigration Bill and decided to substitute a measure limiting from April 1 the number of aliens of any nationality to be admitted in any one year to five per cent. of the number of persons of that nationality resident in the United States. Exceptions will be allowed in the case of countries with which the United States has immigration treaties, also in the case of Canada and Central and South America.

JAPAN AND CHINA.

The Immigration Bill specifies the numbers of immigrants permitted to European countries. The Bill does not affect China and Japan but if they were affected it is pointed out only 2,837 Chinese and 3,389 Japanese could enter the United States in a single year.

PROTEST AGAINST CHEAP ASIATIC LABOUR.

LEGISLATION SOUGHT.

LONDON, February 9.

A trade union congress deputation to the Board of Trade protested against the employment of Chinese and other cheap Asiatic labour on British ships, and asked the Government to introduce legislation to repatriate Chinese not producing satisfactory evidence of British nationality, and not to employ Chinese on British ships westward of the Suez Canal.

Sir Robert Horne replied that he was unable to promise legislation but the Board of Trade would do all in its power to meet the points raised. He pointed out that the number of Asiatics employed had declined since 1915 and there were now only three per cent.

WHITE MAN'S BURDEN.

LIFE WITH SAVAGES.

TRAVELLER'S TAILS FROM NEW GUNEA.

Captain Monckton has a lively pen, writes Robert Lynd in a home paper. He has enjoyed his life among savages, though he has no love for savages, and his book is written with the zest of a schoolboy. He is a good raconteur, always eager to amuse rather than to edify his readers.

Some of his stories are difficult to swallow, but one is bound to swallow them, as they are the records of an eye-witness. He has a delightful story, for instance, of some rats he saw on the coast fishing in the sea for crabs.

"I noticed some rats going down to the edge of the reef—lank, hungry-looking brutes they were, with pink naked tails. I stopped on the point of throwing lumps of coral at them, out of curiosity to see what the vermin meant to do at the sea. Rat after rat picked a fattish lump of coral, squatted on the edge and dangled his tail in the water; suddenly one rat gave a violent leap of about a yard, and as he landed, I saw a crab clinging to his tail. Turning round, the rat grabbed the crab and devoured it, and then returned to his stone; the while the other rats were repeating the same performance."

THE DIVER'S BAD TEMPER. He has several interesting things to relate of pearls and divers. The effect of the air pressure on the temper of divers, he tells us, is extraordinary.

"A diver may be in a perfectly amiable mood with all the world while the dress is being fitted on, but the moment the face glass is screwed home—the signal for starting the air pump—he begins to feel a little grievance or irritation; as he descends, this feeling increases until he is in a perfect fury of rage against every one in general and usually one individual in particular. After that, he spends his time in wondering how soon the dress can be taken off in order that he may half kill that particular person, usually the tender, for some wholly imaginary offence. Another peculiar fact is that the moment the face glass is removed and he breathes the ordinary air—even though he may have come up boiling with rage against some special individual—the bad temper evaporates like magic and he wonders what on earth caused his anger."

GETTING THE BEST OF AN ALLIGATOR.

The book contains one or two alligator stories—one of them on the authority of Mr. Holmes, missionary. "Holmes sent off one of his Mission boys to borrow some dozen six-inch wire nails from a trader, who lived some miles away; the boy was shortly to be married to a village girl, and she accompanied him on his message. On their homeward way it was necessary for them to ford a shallow river; the boy walked first, when suddenly, hearing a shriek, he turned round to find that an alligator had seized his sweetheart by the leg. Hastily running back, the boy grabbed his lady-love by one arm and, inserting his hand behind her leg, jammed his pocket of nails down the reptile's throat, thus forcing it to open its mouth and release the girl, whom he then dragged to the shore. The only remark the boy made about the incident, when he returned to Holmes, was to regret that the alligator had "stolen the missionary's nails."

AN ADVENTURE WITH FALSE TEETH. He had considerable trouble with the native sorcerers, but he quelled them by showing them that he had eyes of different colours and by taking out his false teeth.

"Now tell them to look at my mouth," and I grinned, showing an excellent set of false teeth. They looked. "Well?" They see strong white teeth," Basilio interpreted, smothering a grin as he guessed what was coming. Turning my back for a second, I dropped my false teeth into my handkerchief and, swinging round again, exposed a row of toothless gums. A yell of horror and amazement went up, and fearful glances were cast behind for somewhere whither to bolt. I swept handkerchief before my mouth, and again grinned a gleaming toothful grin. There were no sulky or defiant glances now nothing but looks of abject fear and horror. "Ask them, Basilio, whether in all their villages, there is a sorcerer that can do such a thing as that?" "No," was the answer, "white teeth is greater than them all."

At the same time, when Captain Monckton had lumbago, he allowed a village sorcerer to cure him by means unknown in English country districts. This is not a book that will make many readers wish to go to New Guinea on a pleasure jaunt. It may be that Captain Monckton is not of the "sympathetic" type of ruler. He certainly makes his criminals, sorcerers and savages in general seem almost more barbarous than anything to be found in Europe. One of the customs of the natives is to cut and gash themselves at times of mourning.

Possibly, if one were not jocular, one could not endure the life of a resident magistrate in New Guinea. Anyhow, Captain Monckton has come through it smiling, and has written a frank and cheerful book which is something of a "human document."

FOOD IN GERMANY.

CATASTROPHE THREATENED.

HELPLESS OFFICIALDOM.

Berlin.—A serious food catastrophe threatens Germany. Prospects are worse now than they have been at any period during or since the war, writes Mr. George Redwick. For months Herr Hermes, who is Food Dictator both for Prussia and Germany as a whole, has stood on against the assertion that there is anything wrong. But he was forced to make the above confession of the utter failure of the Government's food policy, when he appealed to a meeting of agrarians and others to help fend off approaching disaster. The brutal fact now stands out clear, there is a deficit of nearly 3,000,000 tons of wheat. That is the supply necessary for at least six months. One million tons have been already imported, but the remainder of the deficit is uncovered. If it can be obtained from abroad it will cost 15,000 million marks (nominally £750,000,000), and it is admitted that will mean the price of bread will rise 300 per cent. during the next few months. With whatever difficulties the agrarians have to contend, it is beyond doubt that they are purposely limiting supplies for the towns and the cities.

"Agrarians," said Herr Roesicke, the Agrarian leader, the other day, "will not allow their cattle to starve."

The price of meat is high, and the sale of it an exceedingly profitable business, so agrarians are withholding cereals from the markets and using them to feed their cattle for slaughter. In the same way, and for the same reasons, the price of potatoes, which are becoming ever scarcer, tends to rise, and will rise seriously in the next few weeks.

It is just best that the wasteful finance of the Government sheds a lurid light on the situation. The Government does not appear to have come even within reach of the reins of expenditure. It is controlled by the Admiralty, which will have ships; by the War Office, without an elementary notion of economy; by spending departments whose one aim is to obtain money schemes which might well wait till the Greek Kalends for all the good they will do. Herr Hermes runs two departments, which appear to be mainly occupied in referring vital questions back to each other, and in avoiding decisions. In his main department, with 163 typists and an expenditure of eight million marks yearly, he only reaches the conclusion that his policy means bankruptcy and catastrophe. It is just the same with the Coal Distribution Department, which costs 28 millions (21 more than the previous year), and employs nearly 500 typists.

These officials pile up statistics for the Statistical Department, which, with 600 officials, now cost nearly 14 million marks, or 10 millions more than last year, and so it goes on, right through "the Government machine. Clinging to its officials and typewriters, the Government is facing a disaster which it appears helpless to avert. Meantime railways and tram fares, the price of telephones, water, electricity, letters and telegrams, all are increased with the view of raking in money. But the only result, so far is to reduce revenue from such sources. Hundreds of thousands of children are suffering severely, while the Reichstag debates a Bill to give the ex-Kaiser a bigger income than he had when he ruled. In Berlin alone 150,000 children are being fed, and throughout the country nearly 700,000 children and mothers depend on charity for their food.

At the same time, when Captain Monckton had lumbago, he allowed a village sorcerer to cure him by means unknown in English country districts.

This is not a book that will make many readers wish to go to New Guinea on a pleasure jaunt. It may be that Captain Monckton is not of the "sympathetic" type of ruler. He certainly makes his criminals, sorcerers and savages in general seem almost more barbarous than anything to be found in Europe. One of the customs of the natives is to cut and gash themselves at times of mourning. Possibly, if one were not jocular, one could not endure the life of a resident magistrate in New Guinea. Anyhow, Captain Monckton has come through it smiling, and has written a frank and cheerful book which is something of a "human document."

PRESENT-DAY PILGRIM.

THE NEW JERUSALEM.

MR. G. K. CHESTERTON ON THE HOLY LAND.

Somewhere or other G. K. Chesterton has sung that Nebuchadnezzar, the King of the Jews, Suffered from new and original views.

Suffering is perhaps hardly the word to apply to G. K. Chesterton where new views on anything are concerned. He does not so much suffer them as enjoy them with gusto. Most people will enjoy with his new views about Jerusalem and the Jews as expressed in "The New Jerusalem," with nothing worse to suffer than the shocks caused by the explosion of paradoxes, like verbal Chinese crackers, under the reader's nose, writes K.K. Much of this book, which the author describes as "only an uncomfortably large notebook," is given to the consideration of what is generally called the Jewish problem—a problem which to some fanatic minds, resolves itself into the comparatively simple one of the best way of exterminating the Jews.

But Mr. Chesterton is not that sort of fanatic; he is at some pains to dissociate himself from the charge of anti-Semitism—the new anti-Semitism which is merely anti-Socialism—and explains that what he and his friends who thought with him desired was to give Jews the dignity and status of a separate nation.

"We desired that in some fashion and so far as possible Jews should be represented by Jews, should live in a society of Jews, should be judged by Jews and ruled by Jews. I am an anti-Semite, if that is anti-Semitism. It would seem more rational to call it Semitism."

In short, Mr. Chesterton believes in Zionism and at that, perhaps, it will be wise to leave a way controversial subject. Those who are interested in the subject will find it illuminated, and brilliantly illuminated, from new angles in this book. They may applaud Mr. Chesterton's views or hate them; but it is hardly possible to remain uninterested.

THE HOLY CITY.

It is when he gets to Jerusalem itself that G. K. shows himself most truly Chestertonian. Well may he remark that: "The men I met coming from Jerusalem reported all sorts of contradictory impressions; and yet my own impression contradicted them all." Who else would dare to come home from Jerusalem and say that the Holy City reminded him of a little old town in Sussex, with perhaps a flavour of the coast of Normandy?

Here is the explanation of what, to some, may sound like heresy:—

"As soon as I was walking inside the walls of Jerusalem I had an overwhelming impression that I was walking in the town of Bay where it looks across the flat sea meadows towards Wincelsea. As I tried to explain this eccentric sentiment to myself I was conscious of another which at once completed and contradicted it. It was not only like a memory of Bay; it was mixed with a memory of the Mount St. Michael, which stands among the sands of Normandy."

The first part of the sensation is that the traveller, as he walks the story streets between the walls, feels that he is inside a fortress. But it is the paradox of such a place that, while he feels in a sense that he is in a prison, he also feels that he is on a precipice. The sense of being uplifted, and set on a high place, comes to him through the smallest cranny or most accidental crack in rock or stone; it comes to him especially through those long narrow windows in the walls of the old fortifications; those slits in the stone through which the medieval archers used their bows, and the medieval artists used their eyes with even greater success.

Then I remembered that in the same strips of medieval landscape could be seen always, here and there, a steep hill crowned with a city of towers. And I knew I had the mystical and double pleasure of seeing such a hill and standing on it. . . . Then indeed I knew that what I saw was Jerusalem of the Crusades, or at least Jerusalem of the Crusades. One of his experiences—a Jerusalem snowstorm—makes Mr. Chesterton enter a defence of the Christmas cards that show Bethlehem spangled with frost, "and are generally regarded by the learned as vulgar lies. Jerusalem, says the author of 'The New Jerusalem,' is a small town full of big things." And Salem, "is a small town full of big things." This is a big book about a small town.

A method of smuggling opium which has lately come to light is that of secreting the drug in hollowed pieces of wood, which are thrown overboard at specified places and picked up by accomplices on a lighter. Opium smuggling seems to be a second mother of invention, to judge by some of the ingenious methods which come to our notice from time to time, says "Shipping and Engineering."

There are strong indications that serious steps are being taken in some quarters to re-introduce German officers in the ships of certain Chinese-owned coastal lines. We understand that the marine superintendent of a company controlling about a dozen vessels is of Teutonic nationality, and that other German influence is not altogether absent from the company, says "Shipping and Engineering." It is an established fact that there are some German ships' masters in Chinese ports, apparently doing nothing, yet having every appearance of possessing enough money to live well and appear prosperous.
